

Comanche Creek Farms
Chico, CA

Comanche Creek Farms was founded out of the desire to have the best tasting, wholesome, “picked at its peak” produce! Located in Chico, CA nestled against the riparian habitat of Comanche Creek, this farm has the mineral rich soil of Butte Creek. In supporting our environment, they use a constructive organic approach to our farming to sustain and enrich our produce, farmlands, and community.

Check out our newest arrival from Comanche Creek, organic lemon cucumbers! We also have organic gold nugget cherry tomatoes on special this week for $39 per 12ct pack.

Product News:

>>> New crop Kennebecs and Chipperbecs continue to be very tight from Bakersfield, we expect limited supply for a few more weeks. Crops are just starting up in California after a long gap.

Avocados: California season is starting to wind down already and supply is becoming limited and expensive. Mexican supply is also tight, with new crop expected to start sometime in July. We are forecasting higher than normal prices until then. Peru will be available and expected to cover supply gaps. Brokaw will be offering 48 count (limited) this week, 60 count is in good supply.

Chiles: Mexican grown Jalapenos, Pasilla, Serrano, Yellow Wax Chiles and Tomatillo supplies remain limited and expensive due to labor shortages in Mexico. Anaheim Peppers have been gapping but will back in stock for Tuesday. Price is very expensive on very limited supplies.

Corn: Locally White and Yellow Corn are now Brentwood (Contra Costa County) grown. The season will run thru September/early October.

Cucumbers: Comanche Creek Farm's Organic Painted Serpent Cucumber supplies are steady and Lemon Cucumbers have just started for the season. 12ct English Cucumbers have transitioned from Mexico to Ventura County grown this week, and 16ct English Cucumbers have started up from the Central Valley. We will transition to 16 ct as supplies increase. 36ct Regular Cucumber supplies are now coming from Otay Mesa in San Diego County.

Eggplant: 24ct Eggplant supplies from the Coachella Valley have ended and we are moving to the Fresno growing area this week, causing limited supplies on high demand as the season is just starting up. Chinese eggplant has steady supply, but quality is hit and miss. Indian, Italian and new crop Fresno grown Japanese eggplant supplies are improving but still on the expensive side. Organic specialty grown Eggplant is still a month away.

Greens: County Line Farm's Organic Red Dragon & wild variety Rucolla Arugula are in stock, also their Red Frill Mustard is available, all grown at the Petaluma Farm. Round leaf Baby Arugula is gapping to start the week. Coke Farms or Lakeside Organics locally grown Chards are now in stock. Salinas grown Wild Arugula, Baby Lacinato, Spinach and Spring Mix supplies are steady

Potatoes: Riverdog Farm's Organic Carola Potatoes are in stock. Riverdog planted this variety to substitute for German Butterball potatoes this year as the Butterball seed was not available. Carola potatoes have yellow flesh and a Russet like texture. Amarosa and French Fingerlings are done for this season, and Banana Fingerlings will only be available for another 3 to 4 weeks. New crop fingerlings are expected to start by the end of July or first week of August. New crop Mixed Marble Heirloom Potatoes have started up from Bakersfield with limited supply to start. Purple 'A' size potatoes are available from California. Washington grown Russet Potatoes are in stock again as the last storage units have been opened for summer sales until the new crops are ready in August. Prices are steady but on the high side as they have been all year due to the poor growing conditions and yields last summer. Also old crop Medium/Jumbo Garnet, Jewel and Sweet potato supplies are all limited. Okinawa Sweet potato shipments from Hawaii have also been limited, market is very expensive.

Stone Fruit: Frog Hollow's Organic Yellow Peaches & Santa Rosa Plums are in stock and we have Knoll Farm's Patterson Apricots in stock this week, this variety has a short season. Conventional White and Yellow peaches and Nectarines, Black and Red Plums are all available from Tulare County with steady supply. California Cherry season is done and we are starting to source Cherries from Washington State, but supply is limited due to weather issues.
