Asparagus:

Supply will be very limited this week and the market will stay expensive. The weather in Caborca, Mexico is very cold with overnight temps in the low 20's. There is very little volume on both jumbo and large. Growers are also concerned about burned ferns and they reported that this coming week is the coldest week by far. White asparagus is available but limited from Peru.

Cauliflower:

Cauliflower is in good supply at this time, but that could change if this cold weather continues in Yuma. Cauliflower Florets are in good supply. Sweet Baby Cauliflower is gapping from the cold weather. Organic Cauliflower is in stock with limited sizing.

Citrus:

Seville Orange season has started in Fresno. The season should run until mid-end of February. Navel 88 count orange supply is plentiful, with good quality and pricing. Cara Cara Navel supply has improved from Tulare County. California-grown Blood Oranges are in good supply; quality and price have improved. Nagami Kumquats are available. Murcott Mandarin supply is steady from the Fresno area. Page Mandarins are available from Fresno through January. Mandarinquats have started up from Fresno, but supply is limited and expensive. Ojai grown Kishu Mandarins have started up in a 9lb box; season will run for 2-3 weeks.
